Real Fulfilment Comes Through Giving Not Receiving

The spirit of social harmony, goodwill, and philanthropy has been the quintessential characteristics of Indian culture. It is because of this strength of the Indian society that many feats have been achieved in our country. Even the great universities like Takshashila, Nalanda and Vikramshila, which illuminated the world with education in ancient times, were run only with the support and cooperation of the society. Higher Education plays a crucial role in socio-economic development of any country and it needs investment which cannot be met only by the Government; rather, it needs support from the society. The best examples of this are aforesaid ancient glorious universities.

The Central University of South Bihar is dedicated and committed to revamp the proud of glorious history of country. Despite the commendable economic growth of the country and the best efforts and noble intent of the Government, there are still many areas where social support is needed, especially, in the field of education. The Central University of South Bihar, Gaya, a premier institution of higher education, deeply feels this need of the deprived children with huge talents and potential. It is, therefore, the CUSB, inspired by the old Indian tradition, considers it to be its ultimate duty to call for cooperation from all philanthropists, Civil Societies, Industrialists and Business Persons, Alumni, and the public at large. To serve this humanitarian purpose, to enhance research, innovation and development, the University requires to be financially independent; and for the said purpose, the university has established the 'Central University of South Bihar Endowment Fund' and makes a fervent appeal to all to come forward and contribute generously towards this Fund.
