

The regression model based on early morning air temperature is superior to the existing model of PM₁₀ in Chongqing. Thus, I would recommend the application of outcome of the morning temperature as one of indicators of ozone levels and pollution distribution pattern.